Hi Marietta,

Thanks for reviewing. Lindsay added some additional language to address your comment. Shamus will plan to move this forward at 11 AM.

“For the 2023 growing season and beyond, EPA stated that it will continue to evaluate the regulatory tools that it could use to address the extent and severity of reported dicamba-related incidents. EPA also affirmed that it will continue to communicate with over-the-top dicamba registrants to discuss their proposals for addressing dicamba incidents.”

Hi Marietta and Dan,

For your review is a dicamba desk statement that we've drafted in case we receive questions following the upcoming status report. Please let me know if you have any edits by noon tomorrow, 5/5: Dicamba Desk Statement, May 2022. We'll plan to send this to DOJ after Michal reviews.

Thank you,

Hi Erin,

We are working with OPA to figure out the best timing for Michal to accept a live interview on dicamba. OPA is thinking we might want to wait until after EPA responds to a dicamba court case in May. Can you provide a little more information regarding the "status update" that EPA is providing for that court case? Such as:

- Which court case is it?
- When exactly is the status update happening?
- What kind of information will we be providing?

I welcome anything else that you think would be helpful as well!

Hi, Maya.

I don't have any reason to believe a court decision would be coming in May. As far as I know, the status update is us giving some information on any dicamba-related actions and activities that have been going on with EPA in the last several months or that are currently in progress. If you need much more detailed information about what this means in the court case, OGC would be able to do better than me.

I see, so a court decision is not being made in May? I'm not sure what a status update means. And sorry about that – OPA is the Office of Public Affairs!

Hi, Maya.

The only deadline I can think of for dicamba is the response that we're giving for the court case. It's just a status update and OGC has mostly taken charge on that.

The OPA acronym isn't ringing a bell at the moment, so hopefully this response makes sense in this context.

Thanks,
Lindsay

Hi Lindsay,

OPA is asking if there is a May deadline/milestone coming up on Dicamba. Is that the case?
